Are You Ready? We Are!

Unless all signs fall the coming trade for Fall will be a record breaker. Under the stimulus of a big demand all cloak materials are growing scarcer and prices higher, and there will be no opportunity for securing desirable garments later in the season. Our line of Cloaks and Capes is at hand, NEW, STYLISH and UP-TO-DATE. No last season's trash offered you. Prices range from $5.00, for a good substantial warm Jacket, up to $20.00 for a fine cloth garment, front, rolled collar, medium sleeves, with braids, buttons and fancy linings. We also show a full line of Misses and Children's jackets, sizes 10 years to 18 years. Prices from $4.00 to $6.00. Remember we bought our stock of Capes and Jackets before this market advance in the price of materials and labor, and you will share in the advantage by way of the exceedingly reasonable prices we are asking for our garments.

GRUBBS & HAZELRIGG.

Care for Poultry.

Scatter the grain well in feeding. Store up some clover for winter feeding. Clean dirt is a good disinfectant and purifier. A wide range is essential to the health and vigor of fowls. The easiest plan of keeping track of the chickens as they grow up is to mark them. See that the early molting hens have good attention. During molting good nutritious food supplied liberally is better than anything. When the eggs are to be stored be sure to separate the roosters from the hens.

Gas tar stands next to a good wash as a remedy for lice in the fowls.

During the molting hens in a fenced-in yard they will get through faster and less time.

Buy pump properly used. You can get a good deal of white-wash for a cheap price.

Like coffee and feed always pay well.

FLAMES Red Hot In London—$25,000,000 Loss.

One of the most disastrous fires ever witnessed occurred in London, England, on Friday, the 19th. The flames had their own way for four and one-half hours. One hundred engines worked one hour before getting the fire under control. The loss ($25,000,000) would be considered heavy on this side the water.

Prehistoric Kentucky.

The report of the committee from Kentucky University sent to Blue Lick Springs to examine the bones of the mastodon recently found there is of unusual historic interest.

The mastodon bones were real bones, and below the stratum of gravel in which they were found the committee came across the remains of an old roadway well paved with stone. The members of the committee content themselves with the modest statement that this is an indication that Kentucky was inhabited by highly civilized people at a period anterior to the coming of the mastodon.

If Kentucky really had good roads at that early day it was certainly more advanced in civilization than most of the States of the union are today. In fact, until the coming of Col. Waring even the streets of New York City did not indicate the existence of a highly civilized community—New York World.

Annual Assessment.

The Board of Railroad Commissioners has completed the annual assessment of the railroad property of the State, and is making total figures on the assessments. The report will show a total assessment of between $18,500,000 and $18,750,000.

The Board this year does not assess $4,875,000 of bridge property used for both railroads and foot passage, assessed last year, but on which tax was not paid because of the decision holding the class of property liable for local tax.

The tax will be in excess of that paid last year. The following roads extended their track as follows: Kentucky Northern, 9 miles; Licking Valley, 12 miles; Brookville railroad, 10 miles.

Victory In 1900.

The vote of "confidence" given to the Republican administration at the last election would have made Bryan President had it been cast in 1896.

As the matter stands the country is Democratic, and the party of the people has no need to bring any more States to its assistance. This is not a matter of conjecture. It is a simple fact easily demonstrated by a simple mathematical calculation.

New York has thirty-six votes in the electoral college, Kentucky has thirteen and New Jersey has ten. President McKinley received the votes of New York, New Jersey and Kentucky, with the exception of one vote in the latter State, which was cast for Bryan. McKinley's total votes in the electoral college was 271, while that of Bryan was 176. At the recent election New York, Kentucky and New Jersey went Democratic.

Suppose the people of these three States had known the real character of the Republican party last year as they know it now, what would have been the result? Simply this: the fifty-eight votes which went for McKinley would have gone for Bryan. These fifty-eight votes taken from McKinley's total of 271 would have left him 213. These same fifty-eight votes added to Bryan's 176 would have given him 234. Thus Bryan would have been elected President by a majority of twenty-one votes.

President McKinley has expressed himself as satisfied with the results of the recent election. He is certainly a good Democrat. With the solid South, the solid West, and with New York

PROF. SHIELDS

Withdraws From His Church Because of Princeton Inn Censure.

Prof. Charles Woodruff Shields, the man who withdrew from the Presbyterian Church because the Presbyteries mercilessly condemned him for signing the petition for a liquor license for Princeton Inn, occupies the chair of harmony and religion and science at the great university. The Professor is a man of aristocratic lineage and bearing and most independent in his opinions. His views on religion and science and their inter-bearing are such as scorn the academic attempt at reconciliation, and he has been called "heretic" by many of the most conservative and learned in the church. But he has never budged an inch from his opinions. He is a grandson of Patrick Henry, Shields, a noted jurist of old Virginia, who was a life-long friend of William Henry Harrison.

The Professor is now 72 years old—a fine sample of the hale and hearty American—gentle, generous, easily led, but never driven, broad and worldly in his ideas, and loved by almost every one that knows him. He is an old combination witling. A poet and a dreamer, and yet as practical as any real estate lawyer in the country. For Prof. Shields is very rich. His estate is worth a million or more, and he manages it with consummate skill. His life has been devoted to education for the pure love of letting such light as he feels he has tall on others, and for thirty years that light has shone upon the halls of Princeton with a radiance that enveloped all who came in out of the dark to see his face and hear his words. He lives in a fine old colonial home. The house stands back in a grand grove and there is no threshold in Princeton more warmly hospitable. Oddly enough the Professor's house is next door to the famous hostelry for which Dr. Shields has suffered so much.

Almost Miraculous.

Charles Cartmell, who lives on the Ovingville and Sharpburg place near Ovingville, Ky., has a fine collection of girls. The youngest is a six months old and weighs 30 pounds; the second is two years old and weighs 84 pounds, and the third is three years and four months old and weighs 110 pounds. Aggregate age, five years and ten months; aggregate weight, 230 pounds.

The weight of their father is 150 pounds, and their mother 118 pounds. The children are bright and happy, and their parents are very proud of them.

There is a boy in Powell county who lives near Bowen Station. We can be no more definite than to say his name is Charlie. He is 9 years old, and weighs 285 pounds.

Out of Order.

"My blood was out of order, sore broke out all over me and I suffered with sick headaches. After taking a few bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla my face became smooth and the sores disappeared. I am also relieved of headaches and consider myself well."

—Mrs. Mary Duncan, Hickory Valley, Tennessee.

Hunting Laws.

Kentucky's open hunting season are as follows: Squirrels, June 15 to February 1; geese, wood-ducks and all other kinds of wild ducks, August 15 to April 1; wild turkeys, February 1 to September 1; quail, partridges, pheasants, November 5 to January 1; doves, August 1 to February.

The Hicks 1898 Almanac and Paper.

We are informed that the 1898 Almanac of Prof. I. H. Hicks is now ready, and judging from its past history, it will not be many weeks in finding its way into homes and offices all over America. It is much larger and finer than any previous issue. It contains 116 pages, is splendidly printed and illustrated on fine book paper, having the finest portrait ever given of Prof. Hicks. It can no longer be denied that the publications of Prof. Hicks have become a necessity to the family and commercial life of this country. His journal, "Word and Work," aside from its storm, weather and astronomical features, has taken rank with the best literary, scientific and family magazines of the age. Do not believe hearsay and reports. See the Hicks Almanac and paper for yourself. You will then know why they are so popular. They are educators of the millions, unrivaled safeguards to property and human life. It is matter of simple record that Prof. Hicks has foretold for many years all great storms, floods, droughts and tornadoes, even the recent terrible drought over all the country. RESOURCEFUL SMITH.

Here is the Scheme by Which He Grew Rich Shocks His Neighbors.

"I lived at a little crossroads hamlet which was not even a postoffice, on the line between New York state and Pennsylvania," said a story teller to a St. Louis Journal reporter. "Of course, there was a blacksmith shop there. In those days the blacksmith's trade was a thoroughly good one. All the blacksmiths got rich with their horse, mule and ox shoeing, and the wagon and the other repair work they did. Most of the blacksmiths combined with their other work wagon repairing and even wagon making. There were very few big wagon factories in those days, and a good hand made wagon cost big money. When they were doing nothing else, they would make wagons, and when there was no work of that kind they would make wagons to sell. This state line shop was a busy place. There was no tavern there, but the blacksmith also had a older press, and he made the older for all the farmers for miles around. But neither this nor the profits of his shop could account for his success, for it was when he accumulated wealth. As is well known, apple cider, if allowed to stand long enough, will become 'hard,' and after that it will turn into vinegar."

"This older dealer always had plenty of hard cider on hand, but never had any of it sold. The farmers and others who stopped at his place could always get a drink of hard cider, which they took out of a tin dipper at 10 cents a drink, and the older of the drink was something which attracted very little attention. Hardly any kind of beverage is more interesting than hard cider. It is a good deal like champagne in its respect. You can drink a great deal of it one day, and the next day you will be sick and dizzy, and you will be a drunkard when you get up. The blacksmith required no license to sell hard cider, and he worked the game to the limit. His place became very popular, and the farmers came from many miles around in both states to get their horses shod at his place. Many of them would come in the night, and their wives began to protest. They always had to have some excuse for having visited the state line shop, and so the blacksmith, after explaining that with a few dips of hard cider, would take the shoes off their heads and put on new ones, which they needed it or not. For this service he would charge a good round price, while in many instances it was noticed he made no charge for the older."

"But, as is the way of all flesh, the blacksmith died one day, and his business ceased to exist. He left an estate of over $20,000, and in the estate of the older press a great number of empty whisky barrels were found. For years he had been getting rid of his cider and had been setting new shoes on nearly every horse which came along, wily 'nigger'—Washingtonian."

Method of the Blind.
The blind man has to depend almost entirely on the accuracy of his ears to guide him when he is out of doors, and it is remarkable in what a short time he becomes familiar with a new locality, and how he can find his way through a new city. A few people are aware of the powers of the ear, but the blind, through constant exercise of that organ, are able to discover objects almost as rapidly as a seeing person.

For instance, when walking in a perfect calm, he can ascertain the proximity of objects by the feeling of the atmosphere upon his face. It would seem that the echo given back, very often from his breathing, might be audible to his ear, but it has been ascertained by experiment that a blind man with his ears stopped can tell when any large object is close to him, even when it approaches so slowly as not to cause any sensible current of air. When he is walking along the street, he can tell whether it is wide or narrow, whether the houses are high or low, if any opening which he may be passing is a court closed up at the end or whether it has an outlet to another street, and he can tell by the sound of his footsteps in what lane, or court, or square he is.

He goes along boldly, seeming to see with his ears stopped can tell when any large object is close to him, even when it approaches so slowly as not to cause any sensible current of air. A SOAP BUBBLE.

The Solution of the Varying Thickness to the Colors It Shows.

The extreme thickness of the bubble is indeed wonderful. It is estimated that the film in some places is only one three-millionths of an inch in thickness. Probably few of us can conceive of such thickness. Let me express it in another way. The Old and the New Testament contain some 8,000,000 of letters. Now one three-millionth is such a part of an inch as the first letter of the Bible is a part of the sum of all the letters of the Bible. The bubble, however, is not of equal thickness at all points, and it is for this reason that it shows the various colors. For instance, whenever the film is orange red it measures about three-millionths of an inch; where it is blue, eighty-one-millionths of an inch, and at a point where lemon yellow is prominent about twenty-one-millionths of an inch. Perhaps you wonder why the colors change from one part of the soap bubble to another. This is because the film of the soap bubble evaporates and grows thinner, but unequally so at different points. As the film grows thinner, a pale rose red spot near it indicates an extreme thickness, and at such a point the film is ready to give way at the least jar.

You will be glad to know the source of the beautiful colors. Every one is delighted with them, even if not interested by the explanation of their origin. We may say that they come from the light. Light gives color to all objects, but, exactly as it does to the soap bubble. White light from the sun can be broken into the seven colors which we have seen in the rainbow. For this instance the film of the soap bubble is a glass prism will do the same, as you may prove by looking through a glass prism at a bright light lamp. When the light reaches the surface of the soap bubble, a part is reflected from it, and we see images on the bubble, as if it were a mirror. Another portion of the light, however, enters the film and is separated so that parts of the seven colors are drawn into the bubble, and we can see the various portions of the opposite surface. Another part of the light, after being broken by the film, is reflected by its inner surface back to our eyes, and we see colors at the point where the light enters—Jacob F. Bucher in St. Louis.

THE WONDERS OF A WATCH.

Few Persons Know How Great Its Mechanical Power Are.

A Boston jeweler who has a talent for advertising as well as a guide for mechanics has been sending his patrons lately that a watch is the smallest, most delicate machine ever constructed of the same number of parts. About 175 different pieces of material enter into its construction and upward of 3,400 separate operations are comprised in its manufacture.

Some of the facts connected with its performance are simply incredible, when considered in total. A blacksmith strikes several thousand blows on a anvil in a day and it is right glad when the work is done. A miller grinds a bushel of wheat into flour every day after 4,000 impacts against the stone, or 157,600 blows in a year. The watch, on the other hand, works in the short space of 30 years.

These figures are beyond the grasp of our feeble intellects, but the marvel does not stop here. A blacksmith strikes the power that moves the watch is equivalent to only four times the force used in a steam engine; consequently it might be said that a watch is one horsepower would suffice to run 270,000 watches.

Now the balance wheel of a watch is moved by this four times power one and forty-four one-hundredths inches with each vibration—3,665 1/2 miles consequently in one year.

If you would preserve the timekeeping qualities of your watch, you should take it to a competent watchmaker once every 18 months—YOUTH'S COMPANION.

Worth Appreciated.
In his younger days the late Mr. W. H. Smith was usually present to see the morning papers dispatched, and one morning something at one of the great news went wrong, so that there was great risk of that paper missing the train. Mr. Smith, recognizing the difficulty, threw off his coat, worked away as hard as any of his subordinates and had the satisfaction of seeing the train leave with just time to catch the train.

He gasped forward leaning over one of the glass screens, a paper, still in his shirt sleeves, when one of the men, mistaking him for a mate, gave him a roundabout smack on his broad back.

"Well, Jack, old man, we got hit away smartly." When "W. H." raised his head, the man rushed away, terrified by his blunder.
On coming out at night the man received a note addressed to him, which he concluded contained the "smack," to his surprise it was to inform him that from the end of that week he would be a foreman. "W. H." had some enough to see that a man who was so delighted at having accomplished a difficult task for his employers was the kind of right stuff—Pearson's Weekly.

SHOES CAME BACK.

HOW MR. AND MRS. ALGERNON SMITH DISPOSED OF A NUISANCE.

They Couldn't Sell the Things, Couldn't Give Them Away and Were Not Permitted to Loan Them—Finally Smith Thought of the Peddler, and All Is Well.

A rag peddler was slowly passing Mrs. Algernon Smith's house when that good woman called him.
"How much for old shoes?"
"Hollow a cent a point for vool an cotton. I gant' pay ole shoes."
"But how you give me something for them?"
"Any iron or potties you want to sell, lady? You want to sell dose tings you you let out? Hellow a cent a point. I gant no more giv. I want not dose shoes, not for nothings. Notings else!"
Mrs. Smith indignantly closed the window. When her husband came home at night, she said:
"Algernon, I want you to take a lot of old shoes to be done up in a package and throw them away."
"Why don't you give them to the washerwoman?" asked Mr. Smith.
"She won't have them—she says they're not her kind of shoes," was the answer.
"They are all either too large or too small, the heels are too high, and they are the wrong number. I offered them to a tramp, and he said when he went into the shoe business he would let me know—he wasn't buying mittens yet."
"I'll like his impudence. Where are they? I'll make short work of them," said Mr. Smith, and he took the big bundle his wife gave him and went out. In five minutes he was back.
"So you got rid of 'em," said his wife joyfully. "I think there was an accumulation of six years in that lot. Some of them I had given to people who were begging at the door, but I always found them again next day in the lot. Old shoes are like that. If you send them away they always come back."
"The cat won't come back this time," said her husband. "I dropped them in a vacant lot up the street. After this when you buy a pair of new shoes leave your old ones at the store."
Next morning Mrs. Smith was doing housework the door bell rang.
"I guess maybe you've had a burglary," said the cheery voice of a man who stood on the steps and seemed in a hurry.
"I found them," said Mrs. Smith, naming and addressing on it, when I was looking over my lot today."
Mrs. Smith took the bundle and feebly thanked him. When Algernon came home, she told him. Where were more ways of killing a cat than of choking her with butter, and after supper he took the bundle and went out. He knew of a nice dark place down near a cuford where he could slide in and drop that load of shoes without being seen. He had taken the precaution to tear off the address and had changed the shape of the bundle. As he deposited it in the shadow of this dark corner a heavy hand was laid on his shoulder.
"No, you don't. No abandonment of the thing innocent when you get tired of it," said the man. "Pick up the poor thing now or I'll call you."
It was the new policeman on that beat, and he didn't know Mr. Smith. He tried to hit and was sent to a hospital aggressive and unbelieveing air.
"Lemme see the lid," he demanded, and when the "lid" proved to be kid shoes he grew still angrier.
"I've a mind to run ye in for disturbing this peace and resisting an officer," he said, but finally permitted Smith to take his bundle and go home.
The next night a sledge came out of the Smiths' chimney, and the neighbors held their breath. About midnight a loud rapping was heard at the front door, and a light in the basement was hastily extinguished. Mr. Smith answered the summons, while Mrs. Smith hid in the coat closet. A patrol wagon full of policemen was at the door. One of them was on the steps.
"Are you running a glove factory here without a license?" he demanded of Smith.
"Then what is that infernal odor?" Your neighbors have telephoned that you were making yourself a nuisance and want you abated."
Smith took the crowd in and told his story how they had put the shoes in the garbage box and had them turned out again and how they had tried to sell them or give them away and finally to the rag peddler. He then showed the police to the basement and opened the door of the furnace, where the shoes were being cremated. Then he produced some bottles of rum and a bottle of gin, and for half an hour he was busy pulling corks. After some time he released Mr. Smith from the cellar.
"Are you gone?" she gasped.
"No, no, the shoes."
"The gin, or the rum, or the gin?"
"They embraced, and happiness reigned in the Smith household. —Chicago Times-Herald.

SOME DAY.

Come, sit with me, love, in the gloaming Of the twilight's flicker and dim
Together we'll drift in our dreaming Away from the world and its din
And the present with all its sorrow Forgotten tonight shall lie
As we talk of the good tomorrow And the some day by and by.

Of the day of our hopes, and belief, When I win from the world's name,
And my thought ship's decks are freighted With honor and gold and fame
And all that is bright and clear in the wealth of the world's supply I'll bring to your feet, my dearest, In the some day by and by.

By blossom and bloom surrounded Our own home shall stand
The castle in clouds we founded, The home that our hearts have planned,
Where never a shade of sadness Shall darken our sunset sky,
And life shall be joy and gladness In the some day by and by.

But if of our dear dream stories No tale of them all come true,
And the day of our greatest glories The tempter shall hide from view,
Then, facing life, dear, together, With never a tear or sigh,
We'll wait for the dawning weather And the some day by and by.

THE STYLE OF ALDERMEN.

People Who Do Address Them as "The Honorable" in Spite of Webster.
In none of the "ready letter writers" are directions given as to the prefix which it is proper to put before the name of an alderman, and it is for this reason perhaps that a controversy has recently arisen. One of the disputants says:

"When writing to a member of the board of aldermen or a commissioner in one of the city departments, it is highly fatal, I think, to address him with the prefix 'Hon.' In proof of the correctness of this view of the case this correspondent invokes the testimony of Webster, the dictionary compiler, who said of the use of 'the honorable':

"An American name. It is a title of courtesy merely, bestowed upon those who hold or have held high office in the government, especially governors, judges, members of congress or of the senate and mayors."

Webster was born in Connecticut in 1758 and died in the same state in 1843, long before the establishment, as such, of the present New York board of aldermen at a time when that body was generally known as the common council, and any opinions which he may have expressed in his dictionary or any views which he may have entertained personally on the subject of honorary titles in the United States could have no special bearing upon the case of the New York alderman, who, as far as legislators has now passed to confine where the name of Webster is quite irrelevant.

The title alderman is derived from the Saxon word "aldorman," otherwise elderman or elder. It was a title which was used in England, and the alderman or elderman was a local functionary responsible somewhat to the present justice of the peace. In England the alderman was a judge, but afterward the office came to be an elective one, and from the English word has come the American title alderman so valiantly upheld by the aldermen of New York, who insist upon a full share of all political honors, perquisites, privileges, rights, advantages and immunities, and he would be a conscientious man indeed who would omit from the designation of an alderman (especially an alderman recently elected) the title "the honorable." The local duties of aldermen are so few, their exercise so carefully guarded by laws of the legislature, that it is necessary, so to speak, for the alderman to die, if the expression may be used without offense, work for themselves. Accordingly from time to time resolutions are passed by the board taking the form of ordinances which by tacit agreement among the members it is arranged shall not be acted upon unless the alderman of the district in which the applicants or applicants request assents to action. In this way the powers of an alderman in a district are very considerably curtailed, and in each case the petitioner, realizing the full force and importance of the alderman's office, is glad of the opportunity to address him as "the honorable," realizing that the facility of another course—New York Sun.

Free Women of Louisiana.
The press women of Louisiana are generally recognized by their brothers of the fourth estate. At the annual meeting of the New Orleans Press club, recently held, it was voted to admit women to membership. Speaking of this, The Daily Picayune said: "The women engaged on the newspapers in New Orleans are perhaps not the least among the great body of workers, and it was a gracious recognition of their worth to accord them membership in the great newspaper league. It is said that the New Orleans Press club is the first in the country to admit women to membership. The act was characteristic of the well known chivalry of our southern part. The newspaper women of New Orleans certainly appreciate the compliment extended, and in the press club, as on the press, will give of their best for its success and development."

A Cerebralized Criticism.
"What the piece needs," said the man who volunteers advice, "is more atmosphere."
"That's exactly what I said," replied the manager. "I told the leading lady yesterday that when she plays that part she ought to put on more air."—Washington Star.

Some Plain Facts.

Grave errors, injustice, wrongs of greater or less degree, arise from lack of knowledge of the truth, and more frequently from deception.

The most infamous case on record of deception and injustice is the attempt to demonize silver as a money of final redemption in the United States.

There is no learned judge, skilled lawyer, or court of justice that is capable of reconciling the effort with the constitutional laws that govern the issue of money in this country.

The people have been deceived, officials in power, chosen to administer justice under the laws, have ignored their sworn duty, and given aid to the scheme that has paralyzed industry, reduced property values one-half, and beggared millions.

There is no authority of law, either specific or by inference, by which gold alone is made the only money with which to discharge debts, either public or private. The effort to make it so is unconstitutional and a national calamity.

Plain and ample information, facts, and truth, concerning this almost successful scheme to corner the wealth of the people, is now being printed in the Cincinnati Enquirer, a newspaper which the combined power of money has failed to muzzle or buy. The Weekly Enquirer is only 75c. a year. The address is Enquirer Company, Cincinnati, O.

A Whole Man.

A whole man is another name for a healthy man. One of the prime essentials of health is cleanliness. The first step in this direction is cleanliness. Not only should the outside of the body be perfectly clean, but the interior of the body as well. Clean teeth, clean mouth, clean throat, clean nasal passages, are all requisites of perfect health. The whole body, as well as every organ in the body, is lined with mucous membrane, which is even more liable than the skin to become very dirty. The most frequent cause of mucous membrane is catarrh. Catarrh creates unnatural secretions, even though the catarrh be very slight. In this condition good health is impossible.

Dr. Hartman has made a specialty of treating chronic catarrh for nearly 40 years. His great remedy (Pe-runa) has become known throughout the United States and Canada. It is certainly the best, and probably the only effective internal remedy for chronic catarrh. His latest book on the subject will be sent free for a short time by the Pe-runa Drug Manufacturing Co., Columbus, O. Ask your druggist for a free Pe-runa Almanac, for 1898.

A dear little head of golden hair
Followed against my breast,
A dear little smile on her face so fair—
My darling, sweetly rest!

Two dear little eyes of honey blue,
With their lids to my lips close pressed,
A dear little heart that beats so true—
My darling, sweetly rest!

A dear little face has my little boy,
A dear little form to adore,
A dear little life that grows so gay—
Sleep, darling, and take your rest!

Narrow Escape.

On last Saturday Mr. W. T. Colvin, travelling salesman for Trimble Bros, was in North Middletown. After working the town he hurried to the livery stable, ordered his horse and buggy, and started before the horse was properly hitched, the bellyband unbuttoned and only one rein fastened. The buggy ran on the horse and he ran, turning the buggy over and bruising Mr. Colvin about the head. He was able to return Sunday and is on the road.

Col. J. C. Hamilton, who has been acting as judge at the Harlem race track for some months, returned home last Saturday. He took immediate occasion to call on the ADVOCATE and was given a most cordial welcome. The Colonel is the same big-hearted, genial gentleman, and to see the look of joyful recognition that comes into the faces of his numerous friends as they meet him, clearly shows how heartily he is welcomed home.

FOOT BALL

We Lose to Winchester and Win From Millersburg.

The Last Game Was a Pretty Contest—Score 24 to 6.

LINE UP WITH K. U. THURSDAY.

Last Thursday's game at Winchester was somewhat of a disappointment. The score was largely against the home team—40 to 0. The Winchester team consisted of four of the best of their second team and seven of the first team. They were heavy and fast, their interference was splendid and the way they made openings in our line to let a runner through was something to admire. Our boss player and captain, Mr. Ganev, was put out of the game early in the first half. Our boys were too light for them, but the endurance and nerve they displayed throughout the game in the face of such odds was perfectly splendid. Rev. Mr. Taylor refereed the game to the entire satisfaction of all. Many expressions complimenting his fairness and control of the game were heard from both players and spectators.

FRIDAY'S GAME.

The next day after the Winchester's game, the home eleven met the Millersburg team on the grounds in this city and downed them to the score of 24 to 6. Our boys made four touchdowns in the first half, the visitors making one and kicking goal, scoring 6. The touchdown for the visitors was made by the left half-back, and was the prettiest and most sensational run of the game. In the last half the visitors did not score, but our boys rushed them down the field for another touchdown, and succeeded in making a goal kick also. The game was the best one that has been played here. The interference was excellent and the way our boys would go through the line was a caution. There were sensational runs made and some punting. From the spectators' standpoint it was a fine game. Our team showed very marked improvement over past games put up.

Our boys won not because Millersburg was a soft thing, but because of superior speed and play. We cannot give the line-up, because we were too busy to get the Millersburg end of it.

The features of the game were VanAntwerp's sensational runs and Stoffer and Benton's tackling. In fact every man on the team played well, and each did all in his power to win. Galus played his usual good game through in a position where grand stand plays (quarter back) are not in line. The line work and interference, as before mentioned, was good. The boys seeming to have profited by Winchester's example of the day before. The visitors were nice gentlemanly fellows and put up a clean, gentlemanly game. Dr. Will represented Mt. Sterling as umpire.

Yale defeated Princeton by the score of 6 to 0, and Pennsylvania defeated Harvard by the score of 15 to 6 on last Saturday. Both were great games and there was a large attendance at each.

The Mt. Sterling eleven will play the Kentucky University team of Lexington, at the ball park next Thursday afternoon. Game called at 2:30. Thanksgiving Day is the great national foot ball day, and Mt. Sterling is right in the push with a good game in prospect. The teams are evenly matched and those who attend can count on seeing a close and exciting game. The boys have to deny themselves their big Thanksgiving dinner so that they may play good ball. Show your appreciation by coming out and bringing your friends with you.

The Center College foot-ball team and a like organization of State College, will play at Lexington on Thanksgiving Day. It is thought that Center will score an easy victory.

The greatest game in the South will be played at Louisville on Saturday, December 4th, between the eleven representing Center College, Davidson, and the crack team of the University of Virginia. It is to be hoped that the Kentucky boys will win as this decides the championship of the South.

Made Him Propose.

The diffident young man wanted to propose to his girl, but for the life of him he did not know how to go about it. He read books on the subject and sought information from men who had experience, and while the theories were admirable in every instance he found that the practice thereof was a different thing. He was walking with her one evening, thinking over these things, when her shoe became untied.

She stuck out her pretty little foot, with a smile, and looked down at it. He fell on his knees to tie the lace. The shoe he walked on with her. The shoe became untied again. The third time it happened he was ready as before.

"If I can't tie a knot that won't come undone," she said, as he worked away at it.

He looked up at her tenderly.

"If I can't, I know a man who can," he said.

"Do you want him to tie it?" she asked coquettishly.

"Yes," he replied.

She jerked her foot away. He smiled to himself.

"It's the person," he said. And he rose to his feet and finished the proposal.—Strand Magazine.

Thanksgiving.

Once more the thrilling months come round. The birds have flown from bush and tree. The vanished summer leaves no sound To hint of her still'd ministry. With darkened skies and meadows bare, And winter's chilling blasts begun, To-day we think what glories were The season brought from out its sun— What fruits are in the earth's bin, What wealth uncensured and granaries hold— While radiant cereals point us within, And crowding vines keep out the cold. Then hear the board where joy has place— Let sorrow sleep—be vanished fear! If doubtful fate began the race They end one more triumphant year. Not ours alone is all this gain— The harvest we have sown in store Should help in sooth some neighbor's pain. And spread kind gifts in hunger's door. The "southern hand that feeds our feast," Which eases the rain and sun-dried soil, Makes all our blessings more increased By every generous deed we do. So, when our table groans to-day, And happy hearts are gathered there, Let's find some grace to give our share. Some welcome gift which we can spare. —J. R. BENTON, St. Louis, Mo.

Mexican Bankers.

"Why are great bankers so loyal to the cause of silver? Why are they not gold monometallists as are the bankers of England, the United States and the continent of Europe?" It is because they are not merely bankers; they are heavy investors and directors in new manufacturing industries dependent for their prosperity on the continued use of silver as money in this country. They take a broader view of the currency situation than do bankers abroad because they are factors in a great manufacturing movement, which has for its ultimate purpose the relieving of Mexico's industrial independence.

Being something more than lovers of money, they are liberal in their ideas and are not blinded by prejudice. They can see all sides of the currency question. There are many able and sagacious men among the bankers of Mexico and they are with hardly an exception, bimetallists. They are not trying to make money dear, they are not wrecking properties but rather creating industries. Men who are not mere creatures of routine, who have enterprise in their blood, want money abundant and the mass of the people prosperous, for when people have something to spend, over and above what is required for a bare subsistence, they can buy the products of the mills, and so keep the wheels of industry revolving. This country is fortunate in having bankers who are also creators of new undertakings. They are making money and they deserve to grow rich, for they are opening up to thousands of men new avenues of employment. They may be accused of selfishness but it is an enlightened selfishness. They live and let live.—Mexican Herald.

The Court of Appeals has confirmed the sentence of 21 years against the slayer of John C. Colson.

Hard Year On Political Bores.

This was a bad year for bores. Tom Platt announces that he will retire from active leadership in New York. The Cincinnati public retired George R. Cox in the rot of a boot and the voters of Ohio threw a brick at Mark Hanna that disabled him for life. Waterson, not to be out of fashion, resigned a leadership that had no followers, which he imagined he possessed, and declares his independence of all parties. Coxey was snowed out so deep that he has not yet reached the surface, but it is believed he will say he has "retired." If he ever gets in hearing distance of the public, Jo Parker has his head run off, but like the Irishman's turtle he did not have sense enough to know it. Boss Martin and Boss Quay were scared out of their wits in Pennsylvania by a Prohibitionist named Swallow. A delightful silence has struck O'Connell, of Virginia. Boss Rice spent the fall in his cyclone pit and David H. Hill marched into his hole at Walker's House, and pulled the hole in over him. It was a bad year for bores.—Louisville Dispatch.

Encouraging to Kule Breeders.

"The Kentucky breeder of mules is rather elated at present over the prices of this class of live stock," said Mr. W. H. Britton, of the Blue Grass State, to the Washington Post. "There has been an increase in the value of mules of more than 25 per cent, over last year, and there is considerable speculation among them, owing to the active demand. Mules that sold last year from $10 to $50 are now bringing from $20 to $70. They are being shipped to Memphis to be used in improving the levees of the Mississippi; to West Virginia and Pennsylvania mines; and even as far as the Island of Jamaica for work on the fruit plantation."

Just as Good

as Scott's and we sell it much cheaper," is a statement sometimes made by the druggist when Scott's Emulsion is called for. This shows that the druggists themselves regard of Cod-Liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda as the standard, and the purchaser who desires to procure the "standard" because he knows it has been of untold benefit, should not for one instant think of taking the risk of using some untried preparation. The substitution of something said to be "just as good" for a standard preparation twenty-five years on the market, should not be permitted by the intelligent purchaser.

Be sure you get SCOTT'S Emulsion. See that the fish and fish are on the wrapper and $1.00, all druggists. SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, New York.

"With Thanksgiving."

A beautiful legend is told of how St. Peter sent two Angels down to earth each with a basket. One was to gather up the petitions of men, the other the thanksgivings. The one who came for the petitions carried a small basket, and the one who was to gather the thanksgivings brought a very large one. When they returned to heaven, and St. Peter with his golden keys unlocked the door, each appeared to be in trouble about his basket.

The angel of petition bore a stack. Crumpled and bound successfully to his back; Yet even then it seemed that he had lack Of bag or basket. The angel of thanksgiving blushed to feel The empty lightness of his mighty crest; "But three," he muttered—turning on his heel, To hide his basket. Then spoke St. Peter: "When again you go to a prayer gathering, you will be a know That men's petitions in the world below Fill a big basket; "But when you go to gather up their thanks For prayers well answered and forgiven prayers, For health restored and disentangled hanks— Your smallest basket."

A REMEDY FOR FRESH WOUNDS

Such as Cuts, Burns, Bruises, Scratches and the Bites of Animals,

Which are Common Things, but Always Painful and Often Dangerous.

And very few people escape their full share of such wounds. Indeed cuts, burns and bruises are of almost weekly occurrence in nearly all families, for "accidents will happen," you know, and what's more, do happen, at home, on the farm and in the shop. Ordinarily, if inflammation is kept down and the poison neutralized, the hurt heals quickly.

Lightning Hot Drops heals any kind of flesh wound, and it reduces the danger of blood poison to the minimum. Relieves neuralgia, sciatica, rheumatic pains.

Sold by all druggists and dealers in medicine at 25c and 50c per bottle. No relief, no pay.

In cases where pain is severe, or loss of blood has induced faintness, a dose or two of Lightning Hot Drops taken internally will be found of great service. Made only by Herb Medicine Co., Springfield Ohio, 50c size contains 24 times as much as 25c size.

His Natural Protector.

"I never let my husband go to a church bazaar without me." "Why not?" "Because those other women would sell him every useless and expensive thing in the place.—Chicago Record.

When any part of the body isn't doing the work that nature intended it to do, it puts the whole system out of tune—out of harmony. Sickness in one part of the body is likely to run to all parts of the body. When children stand a row of bricks on end they knock the whole row down by upsetting one brick. This is exactly what happens to the health when the bowels fail to perform their proper function. Constipation makes trouble all along the line—puts the liver out of order, is bad for the kidneys—bad for the stomach. It builds in the body poisonous matter, and because it can not go any place else, it gets into the blood. The blood carries it all over the system. That makes singleness and lassitude, bad breath and foul taste in the mouth, fills the stomach with gas and causes windy belching. Stops digestion in the stomach, causes sour stomach, heartburn and headache. You can avoid all such trouble, for Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation and its attendant evils. Sold 21 cents in one-cent stamps to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for his "Medical Adviser." It is a book of 1608 pages, profusely illustrated.
